ISBN: 9781495191213, Retail: $29.95
Publisher: M & E Books
Author: David Kier
Pub Date: 5/16, Format: SC
Reprinting 2027

This book contains a detailed history of the activities by the Spanish and others attempting to colonize the peninsula of California from 1535 to 1855. Over 125 photographs, maps, and drawings, provide the reader with a view of the actions of the Spanish Empire using missions to colonize California. The author's research resulted in new discoveries and facts which are included in this look at the history and the present conditions of the twenty-seven peninsula missions; many relocated to multiple sites. The nearly 200 missionaries who served in Baja California between 1683 and 1855 are also named. This book covers the period from the discovery of California in the 1530s through the establishment of all twenty-seven missions in Baja California to when the last missionaries left in 1855.

Pub Date: 4/26, Format: HC

The book is born from the desire to tell the story of a place that remains authentic, where nature is still the central protagonist and time moves at a slower pace--a land to explore with curiosity and respect, guided by wonder. Stretched between two seas, the long, thin peninsula of Baja California is one of America's best-kept secrets. Little known and almost uninhabited, Baja is a succession of breathtaking landscapes: centuries-old cactus forests, mountains that fall steeply to the sea, deserted beaches lapped by turquoise waters, coral reefs animated by an amazing variety of marine life, of ancient missions and prehistoric cave paintings, of starry skies amongst the clearest on our planet. Here you can approach whales that migrate for thousands of miles, swim with sea lions in crystal clear waters, lose yourself in the silence of the desert, or find yourself the center of attention in a hospitable little fishing village.

The Baja California Plant Field Guide is a manual to native and naturalized plants of the Baja California peninsula, Mexico. It is a useful guide for the entire Sonoran Desert and for Southern California, as over 50% of the species covered also occur in these regions. Over 715 different plants in 111 plant families are identified (most in both English and Spanish), with both scientific and common names and detailed descriptions. Many species are illustrated with color photographs. Descriptions entail plant habit and height; stem, leaf, flower, and fruit morphology; range; elevation; pollination biology; ethnobotanical uses; and discriminating comparisons with close relatives. This book is intended for everyone from the interested novice to the professional botanist.

Baja to Bering Vol 1. is a compilation of four decades at sea, recounting experiences from La Paz, Baja California, to San Diego, California, following Doc and Ceci White's muse—humpback and gray whales. As Doc says: "This is not just another whale book...." Indeed, it is a love letter to the Sea, acknowledging its magnificence, its perilous beauty and all the Sea gives us—oxygen, food, water, medicine, energy, and so much more. Journey with Doc and Ceci White as they revisit their favorite Baja California dive spots, after decades exploring the Pacific Ocean aboard their research vessel, R/V Mystique. Dramatic personal stories, sea history, marine science are interwoven with Doc's award-winning and breath-taking photography. While sharing the duties of skipper, diver, and co-photographer, Ceci calls the animals to the lens with her uncanny intuition.

This handbook on ecology and paleoecology is infused with insights on the origins and development of Mexico's Sea of Cortés during a span of more than 12 million years. The concept of natural history appears less often in increasingly specialized literature, nowadays, failing to draw a connection between the present and the distant past. This book makes the connection and brings the past alive. It deals with multiple and interlocking ecosystems and their fossil counterparts, providing a holistic overview on geography, ecology, and geology. Students, scholars, and outdoor enthusiasts of all kinds will find this guide an indispensable resource for exploration of virtually any stretch of coastline on the Gulf of California.

HONEYMOON AT SEA: A Memoir
ISBN: 9781738945207,
Retail: $22.99
Publisher: RE: Books
Author: Jennifer Silva Redmond
Pub Date: 8/23, Format: SC

When Jennifer Silva married Russel Redmond, they made a decision to spend a year at sea, sailing in Mexico. The honeymoon tested their new relationship, not just through rocky waters and unexpected weather, but in the ways that living on a twenty-six foot sailboat makes one reconsider what's truly important. In this charming, meditative memoir, Jennifer recounts that first fateful year they spent at sea, moving back and forth through the waves of her life. On their first voyage, the couple sailed Watchfire to Baja's Sea of Cortez, where they spent a year before sailing south along Mexico and Central America and through the Panama Canal. Jennifer's unique experience on the boat weaves back and forth through time as she explores the events that lead her to taking the first step onto the boat-from her childhood to the time she spent as a struggling actor in New York.

MAAY UUYOW: Cosmologia Kumiai

Spanish Edition

ISBN: 9798901195550, Retail: $17.50

Kumeyaay cosmology was traditionally intertwined with ceremonies, harvest & hunts, burning schedules and the acquisition of spiritual power. Personal conduct was subject to cosmological constraints and rewards. Cosmology was so important that Spanish priests and subsequent U.S. government agents worked hard to repress and expunge the beliefs from Kumeyaay society. This monograph provides a partial glimpse of the Kumeyaay cosmology with worldview, observatories, constellations and stories. Includes modern interpretations of the calendar.

ISBN: 9781955140041, Retail: $25.00
Publisher: Samara Press
Author: Richard J. Nevle, Steven Nightingale, Steven Swartz, Pancho Mayoral
Pub Date: 9/25, Format: SC

(Bilingual: English and Spanish) Laguna San Ignacio, along the Pacific coast of Baja California, Mexico, is one of the most extraordinary places in the world. It is the centerpiece of the Vizcaino International Biosphere Reserve, which holds beautiful and complex stands of mangroves and dazzling assemblies of seabirds and shorebirds, their wings aglow with ocean light. Within the waters of the Lagoon thrives a full suite of marine life in all its mystery and richness. Not long ago, it was all at risk, but was conserved from ruinous development by a legendary effort of science-based conservation. Such is the setting. The Laguna has an eminent place now not just in Mexico, not just in the Americas, but in the imagination of the world. It is the winter breeding and birthing ground of the gray whale. Just here, and nowhere else on Earth, the whales will approach a boat: they will come to be touched, to play, and to romp and frolic with their newborns, who rise to our hands with antic curiosity and affection. They bring not just themselves: they bring a new world, the one even now in creation. Here is the Laguna. It is a place of transformative power and beauty, of wonderment of being literally in touch with so intelligent and generous a life form. This book is meant to show the whole: in four essays, it unites spirit, science, people, and activism. It is the union we can use to make a future together.
